Wolf and Royer vs. Tigers at Roseville
The Bartletts, Auburn, Folsom and the Roseville Tigers moved away to victories in Sunday's opening round of Placer-Nevada League baseball games.

At Marcus P. Bennett, Jr., Memorial Park, the El Dorado County lads downed Grass Valley by a 13 to 9 count in a game which saw the visitors put on a last-inning stand that gave them eight runs.

The score:

Grass Valley	9	7	3
Bartletts	13	14	5
Batteries: Kennedy, Faulker and Dorville; Hooper; Jackson and J. Woerner.

According to league secretary "Scoop" Thurman, the best game of the day was played at Auburn where the champion Cubs defeated the Colfax Lions 4 to 2 in a closely contested affair. Hits were fairly evenly distributed with the winners making seven off of southpaw Revering and the Lions gathering six off of Joe Maciel the Roseville southpaw who is twirling for the Cubs.

Cliff Siems, Auburn catcher, hit a home run over the left field fence for the first run of the game.

At Loomis the Tigers pulled the surprise of the day when they upset the Loomis Reds, 12 to 5.

Folsom defeated the Wolf and Royer Club 9 to 6 on the Roseville diamond.

Cougars Victors Over Preston

Non-League Game Played On Saturday At Ione Sees Locals Win, 13 To 3

If there were any players of the Ione high school among the spectators at the Preston School of Industry on Saturday afternoon, they probably received an idea of what they may expect when they play our high school Cougars a league game on April 19th.

For the Cougars played a non-league game with the Preston School of Industry nine and defeated them, 13 to 3.

The "wrecking crew" really went to work, while Carsten performed on the mound in good style and held the Prestontites to two hits, one of which was a two-bagger by their pitcher, Wineter.

For the Cougars, Barrett had a heavy day at bat, getting a home run, a triple and a two-bagger in four times at bat. Buhlert hit three times in five trips to the plate, one of them a two-bagger. Ward hit four times in five trips, two of them for two bases, and Shinn busted three for five, including a home run and a two-bagger.

The Cougars play at Preston again on May 7.

There are no games scheduled during the pre-Easter week, owing to the school vacation.

The score:

Cougars	13	17	3
Preston	3	2	4
Score by innings:
Cougars	002	102	080—13
Preston	000	210	000—3
Batteries: Carsten and Ward; Wineter, Fleming and Martinez.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Robotham left Monday morning to spend a day or so at the capital city. Mr. Robotham's mother, who had spent several days here with her son and family, returned with them to her home at Sacramento.

Mrs. Irma Lawyer was a caller on Monday from Lotus.

GOT HIM!—Scenes like this will be repeated in many states this spring when the trout fishing season opens. Here A. G. Boesel, president of the Trout and Creel Club of New York, unhooks a big brook trout he just caught near Livingston Manor, N. Y., on the season's opening day.

WHITNEY GIVEN 5 TO 10 YEARS

Former Stock Exchange Head Sentenced For Theft Of Securities From Friends

By HARRY FERGUSON

United Press Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP)—Richard Whitney, former president of the New York Stock Exchange, was sentenced today from five to ten years in prison for stealing securities belonging to relatives and his former associates.

General sessions Judge Owen Bohan gave Whitney the same sentence on each of two indictments for grand larceny but ordered the terms served concurrently after hearing the eloquent plea of Charles H. Tuttle, Whitney's lawyer.

"I will remind your honor," Tuttle said, "that there is joy in heaven over the repentance of one transgressor."

Tuttle was referring to the fact that Whitney had pleaded guilty and had co-operated with five governmental agencies which investigated the affairs of Richard Whitney and Company.

Whitney came alone and friendless to the most dramatic moment of his life since the day he strode across the New York Stock Exchange floor and bid 205 for U. S. Steel in a single-handed attempt to stem the 1929 depression by halting the plunge of securities prices.

He was alone and friendless because he chose to be that way. Tuttle revealed that George Whitney, a brother of Richard and a partner in J. P. Morgan & Company, had begged to be allowed to stand beside him for the sentencing.

DILLINGERS PURCHASE PROPERTY RENTED FOR 22 YEARS

Purchase of the store in which he has done business for twenty-two years was announced Monday morning by H. E. Dillinger.

The Main Street frontage was purchased from Bob Jones, of Smith Flat and Perkins, for $13,000.

Mr. Dillinger said that he had sought some time previously to purchase the property but that at that time the owners were not of a mind to sell. Recently an offer of sale was made and Mr. Dillinger now has his own store building.

C. A. Butts and K. Koep, architect for the new Butts building were here Thursday from Monterey looking over final arrangements for the construction of the new building. Workmen began actual construction the first of the week.

CIO "SIT-DOWN" AT CAPITOL

Mine Faction Members, Ousted From Nevada City, Pitch Two Tents At Capitol Park

SACRAMENTO (AP)—CIO miners, routed from the Grass Valley and Nevada City district by citizen vigilantes, pitched two tents on the state capitol grounds today in a protest demonstration.

Herbert Resner, CIO attorney, who accompanied a group of leaders into the capitol building for a conference with state officials, said they intended to remain until state officials intervene in the Grass Valley CIO "purge."

Approximately 1000 men, some of them with their heads swathed in bandages as a result of beatings administered by the vigilante "cleanup" squads of the Sierra Mining communities, marched to the capitol from the CIO hall.

Before capitol police were aware of what was happening, two tents went up. The officers demanded that they be removed and the men refused to take them down.

A small delegation accompanied the officers into the building to confer with Frank N. Killam, superintendent of buildings and grounds and chief of the capitol police.

Killam immediately ordered all members of the capitol police force to duty at once.

He also asked reinforcements from the city police.

Killam said he had been ordered to "run them all off the capitol grounds." The men themselves declared they would stay on the capitol grounds "night and day" until they received assurance of a safe return to their homes.

Sales Tax Talk For Lions

Club Meets At Noon, Goes To Jackson Tuesday Night For Special Joint Meeting

Placerville Lions will have two meetings Tuesday.

The first will be the regular gathering at Hotel Raffles at which A. H. Flickenger, state sales tax administrator for the eighth district, will be the guest speaker. Mr. Flickenger is coming to Placerville for the occasion from Sacramento at the invitation of Lion L. J. Anderson, county sales tax administrator.

Two members of the club, whose applications were accepted at the meeting a week ago, will be charged with their duties as Lions.

In the evening, a number of members of the club have made plans to go by bus to Jackson, for an evening meeting with the Jackson Lions. The joint meeting had been tentatively scheduled earlier in the year when a conflict of dates made a postponement necessary.

It is understood the Jackson Lions have made plans to meet at Jackson Gate and have planned an Italian dinner for the visitors from El Dorado County.

Mr. And Mrs. Bence Wed 62 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Robert I. Bence, formerly of Placerville, observed their sixty-second wedding anniversary on Sunday at their home, 1710 Tenth Street, Sacramento.

Their four children joined with them in celebrating the day. The four are Mrs. J. T. Hateley and William Bence, of Sacramento, and Mrs. R. W. Pearce and Robert D. Bence, of San Francisco.

Mr. and Mrs. Bence were married at Niles, this state, in 1876. We join their other friends in renewing good wishes.

James Irving Called To Mother's Bedside

James A. Irving, of Fruit Ridge, was called to Davis early this (Monday) morning by the announcement of the condition of his mother, Mrs. James G. Irving.

The elder Mrs. Irving has been spending some time at Davis with her daughter, Mrs. G. G. Pierce, and during recent weeks had become seriously ill.

DR. TOWNSEND LOSES APPEAL

Supreme Court Declines To Review Petition Attacking Conviction For Contempt

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court today refused to review validity of the 30-day jail sentence imposed on Dr. Francis E. Townsend, old age pension advocate, for conviction on charges of contempt of a House investigating committee. The court's action means Townsend must serve the sentence, barring executive intervention.

Townsend, in a petition signed by Elisha Hanson, Washington attorney, charged he was justified in "walking out" of the committee hearing on May 19, 1936, because of the "apparent unfriendly attitude" of the committee and questions "of an intensely personal and insulting tenor."

The District of Columbia Federal Court, where Townsend was convicted, committed error in refusing to permit him to introduce into evidence transcripts of the committee's hearings to bolster his contention that his actions were justified, Hanson contended.

The petition charged that Townsend's actions could not be construed as showing that Townsend "wilfully" left the committee hearing, as set out in the indictment under which he was convicted.

SEABISCUIT MAY RACE WAR ADMIRAL IN SEPTEMBER

NEW YORK (AP)—Unless plans are changed, War Admiral and Seabiscuit, champion race horses of 1937, will meet in a $100,000 match race—winner take all—at Belmont Park in September.

The "race of the century" was virtually clinched for the New York track when Samuel D. Riddle, owner of War Admiral, agreed to it. C. S. Howard, Seabiscuit's owner, had agreed tentatively by long distance telephone from California.

Riddle's preference for Belmont killed the hopes of Chicago's Arlington for a midsummer match. Arlington's offer of $100,000 was matched by the Westchester Racing Association and the New Yorkers did not reserve the right to include the Kentucky Derby winner as the Arlington Jockey Club did.

Former Resident Weds San Franciscan

CITY TO NAME THREE COUNCILMEN IN ELECTION ON TUESDAY

Sentiment Indicates Probability Of Approval For Plan To Pay Board Members For Services; Five State And County Precincts Consolidated Into Two For Vote

Tuesday is "election day" in Placerville and although there are eight aspirants for three positions which will be filled on the City Council, major pre-election interest seemed Monday to be centered in the support of the single proposition to be offered on the ballot, rather than in the election of candidates.

The proposition is, "Shall City Councilmen of the City of Placerville receive compensation for their service in attending meetings of the City Council at the rate of $5 per meeting for not to exceed two meetings in any one calendar month?"

Popular sentiment Monday seemed to indicate that the voters will be likely to approve the proposition. It is pointed out in behalf of the plan that the duties of Council members now require so much of their time from their personal affairs that they are deserving of the limited per diem pay proposed in the proposition.

It is pointed out that under the plan, the cost to the city for one meeting of the council in a month would be $5 for each member or $25. For two meetings a month, each member of the Council present would receive a total of $10, five dollars for one meeting and five dollars for the second. No fee would be paid for more than two meetings in any one month. Thus, the maximum cost of the plan to the city would be $50 a month.

For the purposes of the election, the five state and county precincts within the city have been consolidated into two. State and county precincts 36 and 37 are consolidated and will vote at the El Dorado Irrigation District offices.

State and county precincts 8, 9 and 10 are consolidated and will vote at the city hall. All polls open at 6 o'clock in the morning and close at 7 o'clock in the evening, or as soon thereafter as the persons then in line are able to vote.

The candidates for election include three members of the board whose terms expire this spring. They are: Councilmen Fred N. Hosking, Philip Frost and S. E. Price.

Five other candidates have qualified. They are Charles F. Molinari, A. H. Greeley, James H. "Bert" Sweeney, Henry Toedt and J. W. Lee.

Investigation would have been begun several days earlier, but the American River is high—too high for crossing without a bridge—and it was not until the continued absence of smoke from the cabin gave evidence to the neighbor across the river that something surely must be wrong, that he began an investigation.

Coroner A. J. Orelli was called Saturday afternoon and was accompanied to the scene by Frank Eskew and Don Nelson, of Placerville, and Joe Coster, of Pilot Hill.

To reach the head of the mile and a half trail which leads down the side of the canyon to the cabin near the river's edge, the coroner drove "across country," passing through seven gates and taking down five fences so that the task of carrying the body out would be no greater than absolutely necessary.

At the meeting of Placerville Parlor No. 9, N. S. G. W., on Tuesday evening, delegates to the 61st Grand Parlor of the order, to be held this year at San Jose, will be elected. The meeting will follow a corned beef and cabbage supper to be served in the banquet room at 6:30 o'clock.

Officers elected by the Alpine farmers include Fred Bruns, chairman; Lloyd Springmeyer, vice-chairman; and Fred Gansberg, third member, with Earnhart Bassman and William Neddenniepp as alternates.

Justice of the Peace T. F. Lewis is acting as police judge for the city of Placerville in the absence of Judge E. E. Creed.

Judge and Mrs. Creed left over the week-end on a six-week vacation trip to Kentucky and Ohio during which they also will attend to business matters.

Miss Alice Blair is home following a three-month visit at San Francisco.

Tuesday Is Election Day

If there is a "major issue" in the municipal election to be held on Tuesday, tomorrow, it concerns the question of whether the voters of Placerville will turn out at the polls.

It is every citizen's duty to go to the polls and express his preference in the election of three members of the City Council, and upon the proposal to pay members of the Council at the rate of $5 per meeting for not more than two meetings a month.

With approximately 1,500 names on the list of qualified voters, it will be interesting to note how the total of votes cast compares with this figure. Admittedly, there are on the voting list the names of a number of people who are no longer here. Some have passed on; some have moved away.

We trust that all of our readers will attend to their duty as citizens on election day and go to the ballot box. That is the place to express one's opinions in the solution of problems of city, county, state and national government.

There is nothing to be gained by remaining away from the polls and grumbling about the result afterward. This is a stockholders' meeting and all citizens are stockholders and the place to express your opinion as to the management of the "company" is at the ballot box.

Vote!

Up and Down Broadway

By JACK GAVER

United Press Staff Write:

NEW YORK, (UP) — Congratulations are in order for virtually everyone connected with "All the Living" by Hardie Albright with which Miss Cheryl Crawford, sometime Theater Guild and Group Theater stalwart, makes her bow as an independent producer, it isn't quite the best play of the season but it is a forthright example of a dead serious drama with a cause to espouse which manages at the time to be handsome entertainment.

This is the first play by Albright, who is a prominent leading man of stage and screen, and a commendable job. Although the program notes that it is adapted from a book by Victor R. Smith, "I Knew 3,000 Lunatics," it owes nothing as to plot and characters to the original as most adaptations do because the book was non-fiction and Albright merely used it for idea and background purposes.

Yes, the play deals with a hospital for the insane, a state institution where the superintendent is a strict disciplinarian, eternally conscious of the fact that his job depends upon the politicians and that he can not take any chances by allowing his young doctors to experiment with untried methods in efforts to cure some of the patients.

Lee Strasberg has done a fine job of direction with this play, handling a large cast, many of them assigned to the difficult task of portraying insane persons of widely varied types, in brilliantly restrained fashion.

The Theater Guild has done everything interested in serious things of the theater a good turn by permitting Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne to revive Chekov's "The Sea Gull." It is a must item in the play-going list.

The direction of Robert Milton and a new translation by Stark Young are valuable aids in this new production of the celebrated play by Russia's most famous dramatist. It remains a dark-hued study of decadent characters, mostly introverts, but this production has a lighter touch in spots, especially in the second and third acts, than had any of the three or four presentations of the play I had seen previously. This, of course, is due partly to Milton's direction, but mainly to the playing of Miss Fontanne as Irina and Lunt as Trigorin. That mocking quality underlying their speech and action which is practically their trade mark is used effectively in the right spots.

"The Sea Gull," of course, is no mere vehicle for stars and the Lunts are properly in step with the other important characters throughout. The always dependable Richard Whorf is impressive as Irina's bitter, jealous son, Constantine. The characterization, does the role of the bachelor Sorin to just the proper turn. I liked the work of Margaret Webster, noted British actress and director, as Masha, and John Barclay is right as Dr. Dorn.

Miss Uta Hagen makes her debut here in the role of the pathetic Nina and for three years I was inclined to believe that she was just another pretty young actress. However, she played the final scene with Constantine with such a fine touch that I immediately revised my opinion. She is a player of promise.

Strict Cyclist Tests Urged For Safety

NEWTON, Mass. (UP) — The Newton Safety Council has recommended that cyclists take written examinations and road tests similar to those given applicants for automobile licenses.

Bicyclists also would be required to give hand signals, obey traffic lights and equip their "wheels" with approved lights, bell, horn, lock, brakes and reflectors.

NAVY TRAINS SUBMARINE CREWS TO USE NEW ESCAPE "LUNG" IF TRAPPED IN WRECKED CRAFT; PRACTICE TESTS INCREASE DEPTH SLOWLY TO 100 FEET

By OTTO JANSSEN
United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, (UP) — The danger of being trapped in disabled submarines is being dispelled as a result of improved "escape" methods.

The principal advance has been in the development of the underwater "lung" and the systematic training of submarine crews in its use at the naval bases at New London, Conn., and Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

The "lung" is fastened about the chest and is secured to the body by straps around the neck and waist. A tube extends from the lung to the mouth and a clip is placed over the nose to insure mouth-breathing.

"The lung" is charged with oxygen, which is mixed with "used" air discharged from the human lungs. A canister containing lime and soda purifies the carbon dioxide from the lungs before it is mixed with the oxygen and re-used.

The training at the 100-foot new London tank, which is virtually identical with that at Pearl Harbor, consists of taking prospective submarine men to various depths and teaching them to ascend at the right speed.

The seaman first enters the water to his shoulders and takes several "practice breaths" with the lung to learn to breathe against pressure. He then descends so that his head is about one foot under water to allow the instructor to see whether the lung is being used properly. If so, he is sent to a diving bell with an instructor to the 12-foot level.

The pupil must escape from the bell and climb up a line which is secured to a buoy at the surface. Half way up the line he must stop and take 30 breaths before ascending further to avoid "the bends."

This disease results from a too rapid decrease in pressure. Nitrogen bubbles form in the blood and, if they reach the heart or brain, may cause paralysis or death.

The pupil must complete successfully two ascents from the 12-foot level before he is taken to the next stage—the 18-foot lock.

An attempt is made to duplicate conditions aboard a trapped submarine. The lock is flooded in order to equalize outside pressure so that the hatch may be opened. A line with a buoy attached is then sent to the surface and the navy man begins his slow climb, breathing regularly as he climbs and stopping at the half-way mark for 10 breaths. He is warned not to go up faster than 5 feet a second.

From the 50-foot stage the pupil is required to stop at points 20 and 10 feet from the surface, taking 10 breaths at each stop for decompression.

The last stage is the 100-foot level at the bottom of the tank. Here the lock is constructed exactly along lines of a submarine compartment. Before the compartment is flooded and the buoy sent up, the men are inspected by an officer to make sure the lung is in good order. Stops are made at five points on the line. The men are required to take 10 breaths at each point.

In cases where the pupils are unable to compete successfully the tests they are transferred to some other division of the navy.

In many cases, a diver who has ascended too rapidly may not feel the ill effects until several hours later. A person suffering with "the bends" gives the appearance of being drunk, staggering about and then finally collapsing.

For this reason, men engaged in diving are equipped with tags directing that they be rushed to a certain hospital if found in an apparently intoxicated condition.

Upon arrival, the sufferer is placed in a "decompression" chamber and the pressure is built up. Upon reaching a certain point the pressure is gradually reduced again until it reaches normal atmospheric conditions.

Henry Hoffman was in the county seat from Pleasant Valley Saturday.

DUST STORMS MENACE TO HEALTH, WARNING OF AGRONOMIST

STILLWATER, Okla., (AP) — Dust storms are bringing a major health menace to the people of the three-state "dust bowl" area, Harley A. Daniel, Oklahoma A. & M. agronomist, has warned.

"Unless the weather becomes wetter in the area or the dust blow is stopped," Daniel said, "a widespread development of silicosis, a searing of the lung tissues, will result." He pointed out that the disease in its advanced stages is virtually incurable.

Daniel reported that X-rays of the lungs of 56 residents of the Oklahoma panhandle have revealed "an increase of fibrosis of the lungs with history and findings suggestive of silicosis."

By JANE VOILES

It is spring and like "Ferdinand" we would like to sit under the shade of a cork tree (an oak would do as well) and smell flowers. By the way, do you know Ferdinand? He is Munro Leaf's little bull who has become a classic. Written for the very young, it is being taken up by all ages according to the sales reports. The illustrations are grand. There is one of that understanding cow, Ferdinand's mother, so full of complacency that the minute you see it, you are certain to recognize someone, and it won't be a cow, who looks just like it. "Ferdinand" has been selling at the rate of 2,000 copies a week. And talking about sales, it is reported that the sales for "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs" amounted to 5,000 copies a day at the height of the picture. We wonder if any one is collecting royalties for the Grimm brothers.

It would be that way. Hollywood does itself proud with a fine picture and then pulls off a dastardly trick. "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," is reconditioned. Back in the remote days of silent pictures, Mary Pickford charmed her generation with Rebecca. Now the beloved Shirley Temple is to appear in this new streamlined version that has a radio and dancing girls in it. We have no quarrel with dancing girls. They are fine on the midways and in musical comedies, but why wish them on Kate Douglas Wiggin's story?

But to get back to spring time and the cork tree or the oak or whatever will give shade. If you feel like spring and a tree, you may want a book or two for company. The new spring list has a lot of tempting ones. Marjorie Kinnan Rawlings wrote "South Moon Under" has another book about the Florida everglades, "The Yearling." The leading character, Jody Baxter, is said to be a Tom Sawyer kind of boy sure to win the reader's heart. "The Mortal Storm" by Phyllis Bottome is about Nazi Germany. While her book is not full of the sound and fury you might expect from the subject and the title, Mrs. Bottome neither soft pedals nor exaggerates conditions in Germany. It is the kind of novel that you can't put down until it is finished. One mystery story, at least, from the long list of new ones. Erle Stanley Gardner can always be depended upon for a good sizzling one. His latest is "The Case of the Substitute Face" and if you want to balance the lot with a more leisurely novel that has a historic character in it—Benedict Arnold, try "Renown" by Frank Hough.

If you enjoyed "Green Laurels" and "A Prairie Grove," both by Peattie, you might like to take a flier at the works of an earlier naturalist who wrote in the same vein. This month comes a selection from the works of Richard Jeffries called "Jeffries' England." Why does a book like "Forest Trees of the Pacific Coast," cost so much? $5. It is by W. A. Eliot and would be a treat for tree lovers. There is a new bird book by Louis Halle, Jr., "Birds Against Men," telling about the experiences of a bird lover in various parts of the world. We always fall for anything by Richardson Wright, our favorite garden editor. The title of his new book is "The Gardener's Day Book." It is made up of "short stories, anecdotes, discourses and humorous advice."

"Trapper Jim" Found Suicide

order and well and cleanly kept. There were no notes, according to the coroner, to explain the motive for the suicide and there was an ample stock of provisions in the cabin.

Three letters were found, evidently written to McCrary some months ago, indicating he may have a wife at Lincoln, a daughter in Tacoma and another daughter who, at the time the letter was written, was living in Centralia, Washington. The coroner is seeking to communicate with the relatives.

Mr. Orelli said it was apparent that McCrary had been dead a week or ten days. The body is in the care of Memory Chapel, funeral arrangements and inquest pending.

The coroner declared the evidence of suicide is so obvious that the inquest may not be held immediately, although in the case of suicide an inquest must be held to comply with the law.

The body was removed to Auburn in the care of the Hislop mortuary early this afternoon and attaches of that firm stated that Mr. McCrary has two surviving brothers in Roseville, and one in Lincoln, and a step-mother residing in Lincoln.

the world of sports is Paul Gallico. He has a new book out which will interest men, and possibly women, about the personalities and events in the world of sport of the last fifteen years. "Farewell to Sport," should be A-1 reading as Gallico writes with a knowing pen. "My America" by Luois Adamic, has both author and subject to recommend it. Lewis Mumford's "The Culture of Cities," may sound formidable but Mumford writes one of the very best of current prose styles, never ambiguous, always sharply phrased.

Paul de Kruif, who can write readable books about the most popular subject today: medicine, and can write them with a surprising degree of regularity, has a new one, "The Fight for Life." Besides reporting new discoveries in the scientific field, it contains an interesting paper on "sulfanilamide" about which we read so much in the papers a short time ago.

Variety is the word for the new biographies. Jesse Stuart writes a lively account of life in the Kentucky hill regions in his autobiography "Beyond Dark Hills." His work is advertised as genuine bourbon, which may come as a fine recommendation to some. The English film actor, Charles Laughton, is the hero of a book by his wife, the haunting-eyed Elsa Lanchester. She calls it, "Charles Laughton and I," but Charles is king pin. The very best entertainment for April promises to be "Bowleg Bill," by Jeremiah Digges. Shanghai'd aboard the whaler "Sawdust Sal," so many adventures happen to Bill the like of which never happened before or since. The announcement says: "Miss it at your peril."

PARADE OF SPORTS

By HENRY McLEMORE
(United Press Staff Writer)

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP)—As a man who has always prided himself on his ability as a linguist, it has become a matter of deep concern to me of late to find that I apparently am unable to tell what an athlete means by what he says.

Athletes must be speaking an unknown tongue these days. I speak, read and write most of the recognized languages. But theirs is strange to me. I don't ask you to take my word for my linguistic skill; I will prove it to you.

Latin—E Pluribus Unum.
Greek—Beta Theta Pi Sigma Nu.
French—A La Carte, A La Mode, A La Board.

German—Deutschland Uber Alles Heil.

Italian—Ravioli Gondola.
Scotch—Hoot Mon White Horse.
Tibetan—Shangri-La, Llama.

So you see there isn't much chance of my misunderstanding an athlete if he speaks a standard language.

I wonder what tongue it was Frankie Frisch, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, employed the other day when he said to me:

"Sammy Baugh will be at third base for us when the season opens. He is one of the greatest young ball players I ever saw. As a fielder I never saw his like. You can't shoot a rifle past him. He's a fine baseball player."

I ran, not walked, to the nearest typewriter and wrote a story in which I said that Frankie Frisch had settled on Baugh as his third baseman.

But apparently I can't understand Frisch's language, for now I see in the papers where Frisch has sent Baugh to Columbus, Ohio, because he is not seasoned enough for the Cardinals.

At first, I thought my hearing might be at fault; that through some defect, "Columbus" sounded like "St. Louis," and "needs more seasoning" like "Great ball players," to me.

So I went to one of the most distinguished croup, measles, elbow and ear men in the country and although he found I had croup, measles and a rough elbow, he said that my hearing was so good that I should be an eavesdropper.

I took him at his word and started eavesdropping, and was doing alright until I dropped an eave on an old man who sued me, so I returned to sports-writing and went to Augusta, Ga., to cover a golf tournament. For a while everything was alright. I could understand the athletes and they could understand me.

Then—fateful day—I ran up against an athlete who spoke that unknown tongue again. I quoted him as saying he would like to play in the National Open championship.

But I was wrong again. That wasn't what he meant at all, and he issued a statement saying that my interpretation of what he said was all wrong. Maybe it was. Maybe what he meant was that he was going to start at third base for the Cardinals, and that Sammy Baugh would like to play in the open if a rule qualifying former champions was passed.

I give up!

I KISSED A SPOOK GOOD-BYE and fell in love in the kitchen

The amazing speed of the new electric ranges drove away my old set notion that electric cooking was slow. Glowing heat flows forth the instant I flip the switch.

The cost is very little even though I cook for a family of five big eaters. And I have found many ways to save both time and electricity by using the automatic controls on the new electric range.

No range is so easy to keep clean as my new electric. Closed units and smooth porcelain, inside and out, are as easy to clean as a china dish.

Add an Electric Water Heater and save money. I am delighted with hot water that is now on tap day or night. My kitchen electricity now costs 1¢ per kilowatt hour, which makes electric water heating cost very, very little.
